THE WORLD CALENDAR

The "World Calendar" shown below is being advocated for Universal use by the World Calendar Association Inc., 630-5th Avenue, New York 20, N. Y.

In this Improved Calendar:

- Every year is the same.
- The quarters are equal: each quarter has exactly 91 days, 13 weeks or 3 months; the four quarters are identical in form.
- Each month has 26 week days, plus Sundays.
- Each year begins on Sunday, 1 January; each working year begins on Monday, 2 January.
- Each quarter begins on Sunday, ends on Saturday.
- The calendar is stabilized and made perpetual by ending the year with a 365th day following 30 December each year. This additional day is dated "W," which equals 31 December, and called World Day, a year-end world holiday. Leapyear Day is similarly added at the end of the second quarter. It is likewise dated "W," which equals 31 June, and called Leapyear Day, another world holiday in leap years.

MILESTONE: Charles Culp Burlingham, lawyer and New York civic leader. He will be 98 years old tomorrow.

98 YEARS NEARING FOR BURLINGHAM

Lawyer and Civic Leader in High Spirits in Comment on Birthday Tomorrow

Charles Culp Burlingham—lawyer, civic leader and lifelong crusader for good government—will celebrate his ninety-eighth birthday tomorrow. But not by giving the traditional birthday interview.

"I'm out of the public eye," said the man who has been in it since the Eighteen Eighties, "and I want to stay out."

Mr. Burlingham is vacationing at his summer home in Black Point, Conn., near Niantic. He chatted in his usual high spirits over the telephone about the impending anniversary.

"It wouldn't be much of an interview, not worth printing," he said. "Reminds me of the story of the old man who reached 105 and they asked him how he did it. 'Just never stopped breathing,' he said. No point coming 'way up here to get that.'"

Mr. Burlingham is one of the country's oldest practicing lawyers. Although he was in the country, his law office at 27 William Street was humming yesterday. However, he said that in recent years he had not been so active as formerly in civic organizations and social agencies.

For his activity he came to be characterized as a "one-man good government party" and—by the Association of the Bar of the City of New York in 1953—"the first citizen of the city."

E. H. Watson, New Rochelle Banker, Dies, Ex-Head of the First Westchester National

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y.,

Aug. 24—Ernest H. Watson, first president of the First Westchester National Bank here, who retired last year, died of a heart ailment yesterday in his home on the grounds of the Western Hills Hotel in Fort Worth, Tex. He was 67 years old.

Mr. Watson was appointed president in 1934 when the bank was organized as the First National Bank of New Rochelle. The main office at 491 Main Street is now augmented by five branches in Port Chester, Bronxville and New Rochelle. One of them, the first such bank in the United States, serves commuters at the New Haven Railroad Station here. It is so small that the 250-pound Mr. Watson never saw it from the inside.

Born in Warren, Pa., Mr. Watson was employed by the Marion (Ohio) National Bank as a clerk; the Trucson Steel Company in Youngstown, Ohio, as a credit man; as a National Bank examiner in the Chicago and New York districts; as vice president of the Chatham Phoenix National Bank, New York, and as assistant manager of the New York office of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Mr. Watson, who moved to Fort Worth after his retirement in January of last year, was formerly treasurer of the Yonkers Railroad Company, bus line operators.

He was a former president of

Ernest H. Watson

the New York State Bankers Association, chairman of the Westchester County and New Rochelle Clearing House Associations and a member of the executive council of the American Bankers Association.

Surviving are his widow, Ruth; a son, Ernest H., 2d; a daughter, Mrs. William Green; a sister, Mrs. Olive Freeman, and four grandchildren.

Mr. Melcher attended the Middlesex School, Middlesex, Conn., and was graduated from Harvard University in 1917. During World War I he served first with the American Ambulance Unit in France and later as a first lieutenant in the infantry. He was for many years a secretary of the board of trustees of the Hospital for Special Surgery in New York.

Among Mr. Melcher's clubs were the Church, Downtown, Colony, Acorn and Philadelphia Clubs. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Betsy Flagg Melcher, and two daughters, Pamela Melcher and the Countess Marc de Fontaines de Logeres.

MALCOLM—Conn., July 28, 1956, daughter of the late William L. and Eliza S. Malcolm, sister of George H. and aunt of Peter Malcolm. Memorial services at Christ Church Chapel, Greenwich, on Monday, July 30, at 2:30 p. m. Interment private.

MELCHER—John, in the 61st year of his age, of 170 E. 78th st., New York City and North East Harbor, Maine, on Friday, July 27, at the New England Deaconess Hospital, Boston, Mass. Husband of Betsy Flagg Melcher, father of Pamela Melcher and Countess Marc de Fontaines de Logere. Funeral service Monday, July 30, 11 a. m. Church of the Advent, Boston. Interment private. Please omit flowers.

REYNOLDS—Mabel, on July 25. Wife of the late George and beloved sister of Blanche Riehl and Ruth De Moïs. Reposing at Walter Cody Funeral Home, 1093 St. Nicholas av., (165th st.) Funeral services Monday 2 p. m.

MRS. ROVENSKY LEFT ESTATE OF $3,200,000

Bequests totaling more than $3,200,000 were made in the will of Mrs. Mae C. Rovensky, which was filed for probate yesterday in Surrogates Court.

Mrs. Rovensky, the wife of John E. Rovensky, retired banker and industrialist, died July 21 in Newport, R. I. The largest single bequest in the will, $1,500,000, was left to Mr. Rovensky.

Most of the balance, and the residue of the estate, were left to hospitals, churches, a museum and the Explorers Club.

Under the terms of the will, the Good Samaritan Hospital of West Palm Beach, Fla., and the American Museum of Natural History will receive $100,000 each and the Explorers Club will get $25,000 in memory "of my beloved son," Philip M. Plant.

Mr. Plant, whose activities as a sportsman and gentleman farmer made headlines in the Twenties and Thirties, died in 1941 at the age of 40. Mr. Plant was a child of Mrs. Rovensky's first marriage.

Mrs. Rovensky also left $1,000,000 to the Lawrence and Associated Hospitals, New London, Conn. No more than $700,000 of the money is to be spent for a clinical laboratory as a memorial to her and Mr. Plant.

Other bequests of $100,000 each were made to the Memorial Center for Cancer and Allied Diseases and the First Congregational Church of Wethersfield, Conn. The Newport Hospital, Newport, R. I.; the Bethesda Protestant Episcopal Church, Palm Beach, Fla.; a stepdaughter, Jane Rovensky Grace; a brother-in-law, William R. Rovensky, and Dr. Lawrence Whittemore will receive $50,000 bequests.

JOHN MELCHER, 60, INVESTMENT BANKER

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, July 28—John Melcher of 170 East Seventy-eighth Street, New York, and Northeast Harbor, Me., an investment banker, died yesterday in the New England Deaconess Hospital here. His age was 60. He was associated with the firm of Dick & Merle-Smith, 48 Wall Street, New York.

A son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Stevens Melcher of New York, he attended the Middlesex School and was graduated in 1917 from Harvard College, where he was a member of the Hasty-Pudding and the Fly Clubs. During World War I he served with the American Field Service in France and later as a first lieutenant with the infantry.

For many years Mr. Melcher was secretary of the board of trustees of the Hospital for Special Surgery in New York.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Betsy Flagg Melcher; two daughters, Miss Pamela Melcher and Countess Marc de Fontaines de Logere, and his step-mother, Mrs. Helen de Selding Melcher of New York.

Housing Survey Wins Support on West Side

Civic, religious and other groups of the upper West Side pledged support yesterday to a door-to-door housing survey that will get under way today in the area.

The survey, intended to determine the housing needs of the upper West Side, will be conducted under the auspices of the Urban Renewal Committee. The committee, consisting of city officials, is headed by James Felt, chairman of the City Planning Commission.

The area to be surveyed, classed as "deteriorating" by the planning commission, takes in the twenty blocks bounded by West Ninety-seventh Street, Central Park West, West Eighty-seventh Street and Amsterdam Avenue.

A Federal grant of $150,000 will help finance the project. The city will provide $75,000 in personnel service.

DR. C. K. DRINKER, A HEALTH EXPERT

Ex-Dean of Harvard School
Is Dead at 69—Authority on Blood Circulation

Special to The New York Times.

FALMOUTH, Mass., April 15
—Dr. Cecil Kent Drinker, former dean of the Harvard University School of Public Health, died here last night at Barnstable Hospital. He was 69 years old.

A member of his family said Dr. Drinker had been ill for some time with pneumonia and suffered from a heart ailment.

An authority on lymphatics and blood circulation, Dr. Drinker also served as a consultant on industrial poisoning and methods of artificial respiration.

His published work consisted of 250 articles, textbooks and reports. "Clinical Physiology of the Lungs" was published two years ago.

He had devoted much of his professional career to the study of health problems in industry and had served as medical consultant for several large industrial concerns.

Challenged U. S. Finding

In 1925 he was one of two physicians who challenged a United States Bureau of Mines finding that gasoline containing tetra-ethyl lead was not injurious to public health. In the late Nineteen Twenties he was active in training artificial respiration and rescue squads for the Brooklyn Edison Company.

Dr. Drinker was a graduate of Haverford College and the University of Pennsylvania Medical School. After completing internships and residences at various hospitals, he joined the faculty of the Harvard Medical School. He served as acting head of its physiology department in 1917-18.

In 1919 Dr. Drinker became a full professor of physiology at the School of Public Health. He was appointed assistant dean in 1924 and dean in 1935. After his retirement in 1948, he served for three years as a consultant on physiology to the Navy.

He is survived by three brothers, Henry S. and James B. of Philadelphia and Philip of Boston; two sisters, Mrs. Samuel Barlow and Mrs. T. McKean Downs of Philadelphia; a daughter, Dr. Anne Drinker Zinsser of Pasadena, Calif.; a son, Cecil K., Jr., of Lexington, and three grandchildren.

Dr. Cecil Drinker, 69, Dies; Industrial Health Expert

Special to the Herald Tribune

FALMOUTH, Mass., Apr. 16.

—Dr. Cecil Kent Drinker, sixty-nine, prominent physiologist and for many years dean of the Harvard School of Public Health, died Saturday night at the Barnstable County Hospital in Pocasset.

Widely recognized as an authority on industrial health problems, Dr. Drinker served on the faculty of Harvard from 1917 until his retirement in 1947. Later he was a lecturer at Cornell Medical College for two years and since 1951 had been consulting surgeon for the Navy.

Did Research in War II

Dr. Drinker was among the first to foresee the widespread use of pressurized aircraft. During World War II he was engaged in a number of research projects for the armed forces, some of which concerned submarine rescue operations and naval flying problems. For many years he was managing and associate editor of "The Journal of Industrial Hygiene and Toxicology."

Dr. Drinker received his medical degree from the University of Pennsylvania. He also held honorary degrees from Harvard and Haverford College. He joined the Harvard faculty as acting head of the department of physiology in 1917. He was made assistant professor in 1918 and associate professor the following year. In 1923 he was appointed professor of physiology.

Wife Died Month Ago

In 1910, while in medical school, he married Katherine L. Rotan, a student in the women's school at the University of Pennsylvania. She died a month ago.

JOHN H. GIBBON SR., SURGEON, WAS 84

Ex-Professor at Jefferson
Medical Is Dead—Headed
U. S., Philadelphia Groups

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, March 14—

Dr. John H. Gibbon Sr., Professor Emeritus of Surgery at Jefferson Medical College, died last night in Bryn Mawr Hospital after a short illness. He was 84 years old.

Dr. Gibbon had been Professor of Surgery at the college here from 1903 until his retirement in 1930. He continued as a consulting surgeon to Pennsylvania, Jefferson and Bryn Mawr Hospitals until his death.

The author of more than sixty articles on surgery, Dr. Gibbon was a former president of the American Surgical Association, the College of Physicians of Philadelphia and the Philadelphia Academy of Surgery. He was an original member of the Society for Clinical Surgery.

Born in Charlotte, N. C., Dr. Gibbon was a member of a medical family. His great-grandfather, grandfather, father, a son and an only brother were physicians. He received a medical degree from Jefferson Medical College in 1891 and served as a resident physician at Pennsylvania Hospital here until 1895.

In 1899 Dr. Gibbon was named chief of the surgical clinic at Jefferson and four years later joined the faculty of the college as associate professor of surgery. In 1907 he was appointed a full professor. At that time he was on the surgical staff of Bryn Mawr Hospital and Children's Hospital here.

Dr. Gibbon served in the Spanish-American War as a lieutenant in the Army. He was a colonel in World War I, serving in France with Base Hospital 10 and later as consultant in surgery to the American Expeditionary Forces.

A former president of the Rose Tree Fox Hunting Club and a member of the Philadelphia Club, Dr. Gibbon belonged also to the American Medical Association, the Philadelphia Pediatric Society, the Pennsylvania Medical Society and the National Society for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis.

He had contributed to The Reference Handbook of Medical Sciences, Keen's System of Surgery and other surgical journals.

Surviving are his widow, Marjorie; three sons, Dr. John H. Gibbon Jr., Samuel Y. Gibbon and Robert Gibbon; a daughter, Mrs. Winthrop H. Battles; nine grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren.

PROF. E. B. SMITH, EDUCATOR, DEAD

Teacher of Architecture at Princeton Had Been Art,
Archaeology Chairman

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., March 7 —Dr. Earl Baldwin Smith, a Professor of Architecture at Princeton University and until last month chairman of the university's Department of Art and Archaeology, died this morning at Princeton Hospital after a short illness. He was 67 years old.

Dr. Smith had since 1931 held the Howard Crosby Butler Memorial Professorship of the History of Architecture. He retired from the chairmanship of the Department of Art and Archaeology last month because of ill health. He had held the post for eleven years.

For many years Professor Smith had served as chief marshal for all university convocations. He was a member of the original faculty committee that formulated Princeton's four-course plan of study. This plan, instituted in 1934, provided for the reduction to four in the number of courses taken in the junior and senior years and the addition of independent work for all upper classmen.

Supervised Library Planning

As chairman of the faculty committee that developed the plans for the university's Firestone Library, completed in 1949, Dr. Smith helped supervise the early planning and fundraising for the structure. In 1944, he spoke at alumni meetings throughout the country in an effort to gain support for the project.

Professor Smith was the first chairman of Princeton's special program in the humanities, a program of study in the liberal arts established in 1936. He served in that capacity until 1941.

Dr. Smith was born in 1888 in Topsham, Me. He received A. B. and M. A. degrees from Bowdoin College, which conferred the honorary degree of Doctor of Letters of Humanity upon him in 1931. He received a Ph. D. from Princeton in 1915.

During World War I, Professor Smith served as a captain in the 312th Infantry in France. He participated in the second phase of the San Michel drive and was wounded at Grand Prés.

After four years as an instructor at Princeton, Dr. Smith was made an assistant professor in the Department of Art and Archaeology in 1919. He was advanced to associate professor in 1923 and to full professor three years later.

Dr. Smith served as a member of the faculty in the Naval Air Combat Intelligence School at Quonset, R. I., during World War II. He was later made coordinator of the arts and skills program at Tilton General Hospital, Fort Dix.

Lectured at Columbia

In 1940, he was a lecturer at Columbia University under the Charles T. Matthews Foundation. He was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, the Athenaeum, the Archaeological Institute of America, the College Art Association and the American Institute for Iranian Art and Archaeology.

Professor Smith was the author of "Early Christian Iconography," "Early Churches in Syria," "Egyptian Architecture" and "The Dome: A Study in the History of Ideas." The latter, a volume dealing with the architectural symbolism of Imperial Rome in the Middle Ages, is to be published shortly by the Princeton University Press.

Dr. Smith is survived by his widow, the former Helen H. Hough of Princeton; two sons, Dr. Lacey Smith, a Professor of History at Northwestern University, and Nathaniel Smith, and two daughters, Mrs. Richard G. Stoner of University Park, Pa., and Miss Susan Smith of Princeton.

James B. Taylor Dies at 84; In Brokerage Field 57 Yrs.

James Blackstone Taylor, eighty-four, retired stock broker, died yesterday at his home, 117 E. 72 St. He had been in the brokerage business for fifty-seven years and a broker for forty-six years until his retirement in 1948.

Mr. Taylor was born in Catonsville, Md., the son of Talbot Jones Taylor and Lavanaia Kirkland Taylor. He came to New York in 1891. In 1902 he became a partner in W. B. Franklin & Co., which was succeeded by Taylor, Bates & Co. and finally in 1942 by James B. Taylor & Co. All firms were members of the New York Stock Exchange and the American Stock Exchange. Mr. Taylor retained his seat on the New York Exchange after his retirement.

He had been a director of the American Can Co. for more than twenty years and of the Fifth Avenue Bank, now the Bank of New York, for about fifteen years. He resigned from both posts shortly after he retired Dec. 1, 1948. He had also been president of the Greendale Brick Co., Greendale, Ohio, and of the Upressit Metal Cap Corp., Danbury, Conn., and a director of Hewitt Robbins, Inc., Stamford, Conn., a conveyor belt firm.

In 1921 he was elected to the vestry and appointed treasurer of St. Bartholomew's Protestant Episcopal Church. He became a junior warden in 1939 and honorary junior warden in 1947. He was a former member of the Metropolitan Club, the Down Town Association, the Grand Jury Association of New York County, Piping Rock Club and the Church Club and a member of the Union Club.

He was the father of Lt. Cmdr. James Blackstone Taylor jr., widely known test pilot, who was killed testing a Navy fighter plane in New Jersey in 1947.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Lydia Thorne Taylor; two daughters, Mrs. Priscilla Thorne Lanier and Mrs. C. Beverly Davison; a sister, Mrs. Theodore K. Miller, ten grandchildren and seventeen great-grandchildren.

Dr. Albert M. Friend Jr. Dies; Professor at Princeton, 62

Special to the Herald Tribune

PRINCETON, N. J., Mar. 24.

—Dr. Albert Mathias Friend jr., sixty-two, Marquand professor of art and archeology at Princeton University, died last night at Princeton Hospital. He lived at 10 Mercer St.

Dr. Friend and his predecessor as Marquand professor, the late Charles Rufus Morey, collaborated on the preparation of the Princeton Index of Christian Art, described as the most complete work of its kind.

In 1954, his students and associates honored Dr. Friend by dedicating a book of scholarly essays, "Late Classical and Medieval Studies" to him. Last June, he received an honorary degree of Doctor of Letters from Rutgers University.

Princeton Class of '15

He was born in Ogontz, Pa., and was graduated from Princeton in 1915. He received his master's degree from Princeton in 1917 and served in the Army Engineers overseas during World War I.

He became an instructor at Princeton in 1921, a full professor in 1936 and Marquand professor in 1946. He was director of studies of the Dumbarton Oaks Research Library and Collection, Harvard University, from 1944 to 1954.

He was a trustee of the American Academy in Rome, Italy, and editor of the magazine "Studies in Manuscript Illumination." He was the author or editor of many articles and monographs on art and archeology. He planned the progression of scriptural scenes in the stained glass windows of Princeton Chapel.

George C. Keiser, 55, Dies; Founded Mid-East Institute

From the Herald Tribune Bureau

WASHINGTON, Mar. 23.—George Camp Keiser, fifty-five, founder and chairman of the board of governors of the Middle East Institute, died today at Emergency Hospital here. He lived here and in Winter Park, Fla.

Mr. Keiser was graduated from Harvard College and Columbia School of Architecture. In 1946, Mr. Keiser organized the Middle East Institute "to furnish Americans with factual, unbiased information of the Middle East and to further understanding between Americans and the peoples of the Middle East." He was active in guiding the institute's affairs here and abroad until his recent illness.

A trustee of the Foreign Service Educational Foundation and a member of the visiting committee of the Department of Middle East Studies at Harvard, Mr. Keiser was also a proprietor of the Boston Athenaeum, a member of the Metropolitan Club of Washington and the Century Association of New York.

He was a member of the American Institute of Architects and an honorary director of the Florida Symphony Orchestra. He was also a director of the Cuban-American Sugar Co., Guantanamo Sugar Co. and Western Brick Co.
